

Until 15 November 1952 there were no UK record charts published anywhere in the main music papers when The New Musical Express (NME) published a rather dubious listing of 15 titles based on phone calls to mainly local record dealers. Entries were listed separately where both sides were popular which was in line with the normal Sheet Music charts of the day. This resulted with the chart positions being often placed lower down than if they had been combined. This system remained with NME throughout the 1950s into the early 1970s. On 2 October 1954 NME extended their chart to a Top 20. There were no alternative charts until 22nd January 1955 when the new publication Record Mirror (1st issue 17 June 1954) began publishing a Top 10) Like the NME they separated the 2 sides but dropped this during 1957. However Record Mirror (RM) had began compiling charts from day 1 but did not publish them. Now thanks to a chap, only identified as Mr. Tibbs, who has done some great research and produced some fantastic credible charts from July 1954 to October 1955 based on Record Mirror returns, on his UKMIX web page. I recommend you visit this site. In parallel to this a bubbling under chart book has been published by Colin Driscoll called "Hits That Missed (The UK Bubbling Under Chart 1954-1961)". This lists those records by chart week that were below the Record Mirror published charts. The downside to this is that records that have left the published charts are excluded on exit of the Top 20, which can overstate those bubbling under chart positions.

On 8th October 1955 RM extended its chart to a Top 20.

On 7th April 1956 NME extended its chart to a Top 30.

On 14th April 1956 Melody Maker (MM) produced its first Record Top 20

On 8th February 1958 DISC produced its first Record Top 20

On 10th March 1960 Record Retailer (RR) produced its first Record Top 50

On 11th March 1961 Last Bubbling Under Charts (BU) published.

Rules used to produce Chart of Charts

Where both sides chart they are united to highest side position where applicable. All moved B sides will cause lower positions to rise 1 position. LP entries are excluded.

To compile this Chart of Charts I have where data is available used the following method.

Prior to 7th Aug 1954: Only those records in NME chart which were there prior to 1st RM Chart (To enable accurate Highest Position and Week Count).

From 7th Aug 1954: Top 20 based on Mr. Tibbs UKMIX. Next positions are NME hits not included in UKMIX, followed by Bubbling Under (BU) entries.

From 22 Jan 1955: RM Chart (Tony Jasper) (both sides merged) is used, followed by NME entries not in RM, then BU entries.

From 14 Apr 1956: RM Chart (TJ), then MM not in RM, NME not in RM/MM Charts, then BU entries.

From 8 Feb 1958: RM Chart (TJ), then MM not in RM, DISC not in RM/MM, NME not in RM/MM/DISC, then BU entries.

From 10 Mar 1960: RM Chart (TJ), then MM not in RM, DISC not in RM/MM, NME not in RM/MM/DISC, RR Top 50 not in RM/MM/DISC/NME, then BU entries.

During a national printing strike in mid 1959 Record Mirror did not produce any editions meaning Melody Maker is used as the main chart for the duration of the strike and there were no Bubbling Under records available. Occasionally when there was a shortfall of data to complete a top 50 chart, discs that had fallen out of all charts have been assigned to the lower positions in order of biggest drop. This was done to maintain a more accurate highest position and week count as sometimes they reappeared the next week or so. From December 1959 these fillers are placed above the Bubbling Under entries to prepare for the upcoming Record Retailer chart beginning 10 Mar 1960. I continued producing charts until the last entry of 11th March 1961 had left the charts (A Scottish Soldier – Andy Stewart, left 30-Sep-1961). New entries or Re-Entries after 11th March 1961 are not included in this summary.
